“ Denzil has been a wonderful neighbor to Fred and I. He mowed our yard the entire summer Fred was ill and in the hospital for several months. He was one of those people who truly did something from the heart and not for recognition. We will miss the conversations with him.

“ I worked with Denzil for about 28 years, he tried to show a rough exterior but if you really knew him he had such a soft heart.

He was a true craftsman and wanted everything perfect. I got to see him several times after he retired and fixed some things for him. I remember how he would say ,”dang it Don I can’t see things very good anymore or I can’t remember “

RIP my friend, you will be missed.

“ Denzil was married to my sister, Lois, who died in 2007. He was the best son-in-law anyone could ever ask for. He often bought our mother major appliances and furniture and did all kinds of handiwork for her. You never had to worry because everything he did was perfect. When I was a freshman in college I ran out of money in March of my freshman year. He made a special trip to Glenville and handed me $200. "You can pay me after you graduate," he said. His was the first debt I paid after I graduated and went to work.
